Dear Parents and Carers,

I hope your child has enjoyed their first day back at school - I am sure the staff and their school friends were really glad to see them.

As you would suspect, the latest DfE Guidance has come out (updated again yesterday, as there were errors in the latest DfE guidance) and, as such, I have amended and attached Version 28 of the Main Risk Assessment to each school's website, for your information.

I have highlighted, in yellow, the sections which are new, since the last version, for ease of reference.

The DfE made an error referring to Day 8 as a return date for school. As such, please note that, if your child gets a second negative LFD test on day seven (24 hours after the one before) then they can return to school straight away on day seven. This is now reflected in the newly published Risk Assessment.

Best wishes, as always.
